Elevating Quality Standards: ABSTO gets ISO Certification

ABSTO is proud to announce its ISO-certification, conforming to the body's Quality Management System standard.

ABSTO has long been recognised for its innovative solutions in the realm of industrial and personal-use adhesive tapes. The ISO 9001:2015 certification, awarded on 8 February 2024, is a testament to the stringent quality management systems ABSTO has implemented across its operations.

ISO is globally acknowledged as the gold standard for quality management systems. Organisations must consistently provide products and services that meet customer and regulatory requirements, enhancing customer satisfaction through effective system processes. ABSTO's certification achievement is not merely about receiving a title; it reflects a holistic approach to quality at every level of production and administrative processes.

Achieving the ISO certification was a rigorous process involving a comprehensive review of management systems, from product development to customer feedback mechanisms. It necessitated a collaborative effort across all departments to align with the ISO's stringent standards, focusing on continual improvement and customer satisfaction.

The ISO certification is a significant milestone in ABSTO's journey, but it represents just the beginning of ABSTO's commitment to quality and excellence. ABSTO's dedication to maintaining the highest standards will continue to drive our approach, ensuring that ABSTO remains at the forefront of the adhesive solutions industry.

ABSTO invites its customers, partners, and stakeholders to learn more about the ISO certification and their ongoing commitment to excellence. Moving forward, ABSTO remains dedicated to meeting and exceeding expectations, reinforcing its position as a leader in quality and innovation.
